

1) What was a misconception a lot of people had when we first started to learn about moon phases - how did they THINK a crescent was formed?

2) What is the difference now, how do you now KNOW a crescent is formed?

3) Would the moon have phases from other places in space (not from Earth)